

To Whom It May Concern:

Being in the bakery business, our margins are extremely tight. When John Lewis approached me about their Business Consulting Services, I certainly agreed to give him the opportunity to reduce our expenses. After meeting with Lewis, we allowed them to review several key areas of our operating expenses and were very impressed with their level of service and attention to detail. We are in the process of implementing several of their recommendations at this point and it has helped our company tremendously.

The whole experience has been positive for me and our staff, as well as enhanced our bottom-line. Please consider Lewis & Associates to review your expenses. The entire process is extremely easy and requires very little time. If you have any questions, just give me a call.
